

Stonewall Noise Orchestra or S.N.O. for short, is rooted in the beautiful industrial city of Borlänge, Sweden. The band, which consists of members from Demon Cleaner, Greenleaf and several other constellations was formed in the summer of 2004.

Their music might be influenced by 70's groovy rock along with many other sources of inspiration. Whatever feels right at the moment is what ends up on tape.

In 2005 they signed with Daredevil Records for their full length debut "Vol. 1". The debut album was recorded (financed by bootleg booze) at Pophouse, Borlänge. Snicken and Mr. Pillow borrowed a studio from a friend and did what they could..or couldn't do with it, trying their best to engineer and produce an album. With "Vol.1" and a bunch of compilations released the band's been touring Europe and built a reputation for their intense and uncompromising live performances.

In 2006 the microphone was temporarily passed over to John Hermansen who joined the recordings of the second album produced by Robert Ekholm. John also teamed up for some touring with the orchestra while Singe, the original singer took a break from the band...to fight a demon or two. In 2008, Singe rejoins the orchestra and they sign a deal with The Unit Music Company and the second album called "Constants In An Ever Changing Universe" is released October 29.

"Constants..." got great reviews and this opened up for more touring, which by the way is the No. 1 purpose of the band.

Late 2009 the band head in to their own newly built Studio 454 to record and produce their third album. This little baby is called "Sweet Mississippi Deal" and will be released on Transubstans Records fall 2010.
